Stephen: Hiya – how's it going?

Shopkeeper: Hi, very well. How are you?

Stephen: Good, thanks.

Stephen: I like these, how much are they?

Shopkeeper: Er, the leaf lights – they are £21.95.

Stephen: Hmm, I'm not sure she'll like them. Can you help me? I'm looking for a birthday present for my mum. Any ideas?

Shopkeeper: What type of thing does she like?

Stephen: Well, she's quite stylish – modern, I suppose.

Shopkeeper: Well, the yin yang's really modern. What do you think of that?

Stephen: Hmm. What about that one over there?

Shopkeeper: Ah, the ball lights – lovely – it's fifty pounds.

Stephen: Oh.

Shopkeeper: How about... forty, seeing as it's your mother's birthday?

Stephen: Twenty?

Shopkeeper: Twenty? That's really cheap. How about I meet you halfway – twenty-five?

Stephen: Great, thanks mate. My Mum's going to love this.

Shopkeeper: You're welcome

Language focus:

How is it going ? = How are you?

How are you is not a modern way. British people prefer to use 'How is it going?`.
